Executive Summary: Become the Recognized National Leader in Civic Art

In the Spring of 2016, the ad hoc City of Houston Civic Art Evaluation Working Group conducted an internal evaluation of the City's Civic Art Program, as required by ordinance. This included extensive review of the program implementation as set out in the governing Civic Art Ordinance, service delivery processes and alignment with the City's adopted Arts & Cultural Plan. As the new director of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, a value of working with this ad hoc group of individuals has been to observe their deep commitment to program quality and effectiveness. I am very appreciative for the many hours of conscientious effort the group gave to complete the evaluation in an expedited timeframe.

The Civic Art Program is part of the City's capital asset investments and produces permanent visual artworks. In reading this report, it is important to keep in mind that the Civic Art Program is just one way the City invests in the cultural development of the community. The City uses a range of tools and strategies and cultural initiatives can be found throughout the City's departments and offices. The programs are managed internally and/or carried out through service contracts. The Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs advances the Mayor's cultural priorities through the City's programs, partnerships and communications. It is the point of contact for many of the City's cultural strategies and implements the City's Arts and Cultural Plan, which was developed in coordination with the City's first General Plan. In addition, Houston Public Library, the Parks and Recreation Department and other City departments routinely provide cultural services to the public. An overview of the City's cultural strategies can be found on page 6 and is further detailed in the Arts and Cultural Plan. This evaluation is concerned solely with the City's Civic Art Program.

The Civic Art Evaluation Working Group reviewed documents, collected and assessed program activity data and gathered input from key department staff. It concludes that the Civic Art Program is delivering high level public works of art through consistent appropriation and expenditure of funds as set out in the ordinance. During the evaluation period, which covers approximately nine years of program activity, 85 works were commissioned, 173 were purchased and 26 were donated, for a total of 284 new artworks acquired. The program provides good stewardship of the City's art collection by routinely contracting for conservation services and providing regular maintenance of the collection. Across the U.S., major cities like Los Angeles, New York and Philadelphia are challenged to provide conservation of their collections because of ordinance limitations. Houston's ordinance showed great foresight in providing for conservation as an allowable use of funds. As a result, 106 artworks received conservation treatment during the evaluation period. Overall, the program is generally well-managed by experienced staff and contractors and effective in realizing artworks. This does not mean, however, that there are not significant opportunities for improvement. Thus, the conclusions of this report are intended to make a good program—a great program, so the City may fully capitalize on the program's benefits to Houston's quality of life, its civic identity and be recognized as the leading program in the nation.

The report presents opportunities for improvement at both the administrative and policy levels in three key areas: identity and promotion, distribution of projects, and productivity and performance.

Identity and Promotion

While not a principal focus of the evaluation, the Civic Art Evaluation Working Group observed a significant opportunity for greater impact through more recognition of the City's art collection as attractions for residents and visitors. The City's Arts and Cultural Plan highlights the importance of cultural offerings for cities in order to attract and retain resources and talent, and cultural tourism is a significant focus for the marketing efforts of the city. All leading U.S. cities and many states, territories and smaller cities have established art programs similar to Houston's Civic Art Program. By the end of 2015, the City of Houston's art collection had acquired more than 650 objects ranging from prints and drawings to monumental sculptures. It contains works by international luminaries like Dr. John Biggers and Mel Chin and artworks that enliven neighborhood facilities such as Tara Conley's pieces at South Gessner Police Station and the Reginald Adams' at Kashmere Gardens Multi Service Center. The collection contains iconic artworks in parks and greenspaces like Juame Plensa's contemplative figures along Allen Parkway, Margo Sawyer's colorful art boxes at Discovery Green and the Houston Police Officers' Memorial by Jesús Bautista Moroles. Houston's airports are replete with stunning artworks and play host to an ambitious portable artworks program. Six of the City's recycling trucks are wrapped with artworks that roll throughout the city on a regular basis. Once the City has invested in a new project there are many opportunities to reap additional benefits through branding, promotion and interpretive programs over and over again, expanding Houston's identity as an arts city and cultural destination.

Distribution of Projects

The basic structure is in place to deploy civic art projects, but the program has not been effective in distributing projects equitably across the geography. While the City as a whole gained a significant number of artworks, the review of the placement of artworks throughout the City, found some areas with higher concentrations than others and that many areas did not receive any new artworks during the evaluation period. The most effective way to make substantial, permanent improvements in the impact of the program for residents is to prioritize project locations and update the Civic Art Ordinance to provide art projects in areas of the city that have not received Civic Art projects. This was previously documented as a recommendation in the City's adopted Arts and Cultural Plan and has been discussed recently at City Council's most recent Capital Improvement Plan review. An opportunity also exists to build greater flexibility into the use of future art funding when crafting upcoming bond language.

Productivity and Performance

The Civic Art Program execution relies on the institutional memory of experienced staff to carry out a number of important project functions efficiently and effectively. The evaluation process was the first time key staff across all departments met together to review the program's overall performance and discuss opportunities for improvement. Two new standard reports were generated during the evaluation process to better meet the reporting requirements under the ordinance. In this way, the City has taken the first step in continuous process improvement that can be carried on moving forward. For example, the Working Group identified the potential of greater efficiency and cost savings by reviewing contracting mechanisms, codifying effective practices and systematizing the administrative requirements of the ordinance. The evaluation process also underscored the importance of beginning the artist selection process at the initiation of a project to maximize the creative opportunity and to provide more opportunity for local artists.

From Good to Great

To summarize the overall evaluation of the Civic Art Program, it is untapped potential. Updating the ordinance to realize art projects in areas of the city not currently served by the program and making simple improvements in the program administration will produce significantly more impact and shared benefit from the program. Houston's City Council has twice adopted the Civic Art Program by City Ordinance, first in 1999 and again in 2006. Each time the program was adopted, the City's top leaders recognized the importance of expanding opportunities for its citizens to experience art, the economic benefits to be gained through such a program and the need to care for art created through the program. With just a few modifications to strengthen an already good program, the City can realize the full promise embodied in the program ordinance and become the recognized national leader in civic art.

Evaluation Report

This report contains the results of an evaluation of the City of Houston’s Civic Art Program. The 2006 ordinance called for an evaluation of the Civic Art Program to be undertaken by the Quality of Life Committee five years after adoption of the amended ordinance. In February 2016, Mayor Sylvester Turner and Mayor Pro Tem Ellen Cohen, Chair of the City Council Quality of Life Committee, tasked the Mayor’s Office of Cultural Affairs with carrying out the evaluation. A Civic Art Program Evaluation Working Group (Working Group) was formed to conduct the evaluation.

The Working Group is comprised of staff from City departments and offices directly involved in the oversight and administration of the Civic Art Program including: City Controller’s Office, Finance Department, General Services Department, Houston Airport System, Houston First Corporation, Mayor’s Office of Cultural Affairs, Mayor’s Office of Economic Development and Department of Public Works and Engineering.

The Working Group met from March 3, 2016 – May 6, 2016 to review and examine the implementation of the program as set out in Exhibit A of the 2006 ordinance. Additional City staff, outside experts and Houston Arts Alliance, which works under contract to the City to administer aspects of the program, were interviewed and contributed content.

A complete list of participants appears in the Acknowledgements on page 26.

Unless otherwise noted, the findings are for the program evaluation period of this report—from the adoption of the current Civic Art Program Ordinance (No. 2006-731) (Appendix A) by City Council on June 28, 2006 to December 31, 2015.

Houston First Corporation, a Local Government Corporation, was formed in 2011 and consolidated the City’s Convention & Entertainment Facilities Department (CEFD). This report spans the time period in which both entities participated in the Civic Art Program and both entities are included in relation to their activities at the time referenced. Unless otherwise noted, references to Program activity of the City includes CEFD/HFC activity.

The 2006 ordinance amended the previous 1999 ordinance and includes in the recitals that “art has enabled people in all societies to better understand their communities and individual lives; and the City’s standing as a national leader in public art will be enhanced by encouraging artists to create public works of art that improve the quality of life in Houston.” Houston’s City Council further recognized in adopting the Civic Art Program Ordinance that “once art is placed throughout the City, it is necessary to provide for the ongoing maintenance and conservation of the City’s art collection.”¹

Using the Ordinance recitals as a guide, the objectives of the evaluation were to assess the program on:

- Level of activity in creating and acquiring public artworks in the City Collection

- Placement of public artworks throughout the City
- Program execution and conformity with the ordinance
- Ongoing maintenance of the City Collection

The evaluation was conducted concurrently with the implementation of the City's adopted Arts and Cultural Plan and in alignment with its recommendations. The evaluation presents findings related to the program's implementation as set out in the 2006 Ordinance with potential structural and operational improvements to improve efficiency and impact.

Background

The City of Houston has a number of resources and tools it currently uses to invest in arts and culture. In addition to Civic Art, the City also invests through grants provided from the Hotel Occupancy Tax (HOT)² revenue for arts and agreements for the maintenance and stewardship of some of Houston's performing arts spaces such as Wortham Center, Jones Hall, Talento Bilingue de Houston and Miller Outdoor Theatre. The City supports the Houston Poet Laureate Program and community festivals and events. It offers economic development incentives, like Chapter 380 agreements, under the Texas local government code. It grants access to public land for privately sponsored temporary artworks. Recently, the City also implemented the Traffic Signal Control Cabinet art program (known as "mini murals") where public and private groups can sponsor murals for the cabinets. To date, 121 murals have been sponsored in 9 City Council districts. All of these examples illustrate the array of tools used to invest in the arts and cultural development of Houston.

The City of Houston's Civic Art Program is modeled after similar government funded programs prevalent throughout the United States, the majority of European countries, Canada, Australia and elsewhere. More commonly known as "public art" or "percent for art" programs, there are over 300 government funded public art programs in the United States, including all leading cities and 28 programs funded by states and territories.

² In 2013, the City entered into a five-year professional service contract (January 1, 2014 – December 31, 2018) with four contractors commonly known as: Houston Arts Alliance, Museum District, Miller Theatre and Theater District. The source of the funding is HOT revenue dedicated to the arts. The four contractors are component units of the City. The Texas Tax Code states that the revenue from the municipal hotel occupancy tax may only be used to promote tourism and the convention and hotel industry for certain purposes including the encouragement, promotion, improvement and application of the arts (Chapter 351).

As many as 3,000 smaller cities, jurisdictions and other entities like universities in the U.S. also make periodic investments in public art projects.³ A complete list of public programs in the U.S. is included in Appendix B.

Present day public art programs evolved from the long history of nationalistic monument creation and from programs like President Roosevelt’s New Deal that facilitated the development of public art during the Great Depression. These programs developed a percent for art funding structure that is still utilized in contemporary programs.⁴ The City of Philadelphia is credited with establishing the first government-funded percent for art program in 1959, which is most like the programs common throughout the United States today. Government funded public art programs allocate anywhere from 0.5 percent to 2 percent of project costs for the creation and acquisition of artwork.

Common factors influencing government investment in public art programs are:

- Enhancing the physical environment
- Creating a sense of place and distinctiveness
- Contributing to community cohesion
- Contributing to social health and wellbeing
- Contributing to economic value through inward investment and tourism
- Fostering civic pride and confidence
- Raising quality of life
- Reducing crime

In Texas, the University of Houston was the first state institution to establish a percent for art program in 1966. All major Texas cities—Austin, Corpus Christi, Dallas, El Paso, San Antonio and Forth Worth—have established public art programs. Houston’s METRO and Dallas Area Rapid Transit (DART) also have the Arts in Transit Program.

Houston’s City Council first established the City of Houston Civic Art Program by Ordinance No. 99-1351 on December 21, 1999. City of Houston Ordinance No. 2006-731 amended and restated the original ordinance, thus the program was again adopted by City Council on June 28, 2006.

The City’s Civic Art Ordinance appropriates 1.75 percent of design and construction costs on qualifying City Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) projects. The CIP is an annually updated five-year plan addressing the infrastructure needs of the City of Houston. Civic Art projects are generated through the CIP by nearly every City department, typically as part of the construction of new facilities and major expansion. The Civic Art appropriation is an amount equal to 1.75 percent of the amount appropriated by City Council for an eligible project and only applies to capital projects where funds are appropriated by City Council.

The CIP includes component units of the City. Component units (Governmental and Business-Type) are legally separate organizations for which elected officials of the City of Houston are financially accountable or the nature and significance of the relationship is such that exclusion would cause financial statements to be misleading or incomplete. Therefore, these component units are included in the City's 5 year CIP.

The Civic Art Ordinance allocation applies to capital projects that are not deemed “excluded” and with budgets in excess of $500,000. Excluded projects are paving projects, street resurfacing, runways, parking lots, signal and traffic control, underground projects, demolition projects, environmental assessment or remediation projects, projects for the rehabilitation or replacement of a single-building system (e.g. roofing only). Civic Art funds are highly restricted. Funds appropriated for Civic Art purposes are for distinct portions of the CIP, including Public Improvements (Fire, Library, Parks, Police, Health and General Government), Houston Airport System (HAS),

Solid Waste Management and Department of Public Works and Engineering. Any amount appropriated from bonds, debt issuance or other legally restricted funding sources must be kept separate and spent in accordance with the applicable legal restrictions related to the funding source and/or City Department.

Civic Art Projects include paintings, murals, prints, drawings, photographs, videos, films, decorations, stained glass, statues, sculptures, monuments, fountains, arches, or other structures of permanent character located on City property. Civic Art funds may also be used to restore existing art, but cannot be used for routine cleaning and maintenance.

On October 14, 2015, Houston's City Council adopted the Arts and Cultural Plan, which includes recommendations related to the Civic Art Program. Hundreds of individuals contributed to the Arts and Cultural Plan through meetings, interviews and events, and thousands more accessed the project online.⁵ The Arts and Cultural Plan identifies community concerns, sets a vision for the future and recommends actions to achieve long-term priorities. The Plan was developed by looking at local data, research and by listening to community residents, artists, arts and cultural groups, a community advisory committee, City staff and elected officials, civic leaders and experts. The Plan's vision is to foster an environment in which art and culture flourish for the sharing and benefit of all residents and visitors.

⁵ The Arts and Cultural Plan process had broad community input from residents, stakeholders, community leaders, City department directors and City office leaders through: two Town Hall meetings, three Quality of Life Committee meetings, six public meetings, six focus groups, nine Community Advisory Committee meetings, 25 presentations, 100 interviews, 429 intercept surveys and more than 7,000 unique visitors to ByYouCity.org.

Context

Encompassed in the recitals of the Civic Art Program Ordinance is a basic appreciation for the value of the arts to Houston. Houston's Civic Art Program provides residents access to hundreds of artworks in the City Collection and contributes to Houston's identity as an exciting cultural center as well as to the city's economy. The City's investment in the Civic Art Program results in jobs and small business contracts to produce the very public artworks that contribute to Houston being a great place to live and visit. The City of Houston's adopted Arts and Cultural Plan states that "arts and culture is central to enhancing both quality of life and quality of place, and cultural vitality flourishes where there is opportunity and broad participation."⁶ Public art, as the name suggests, is the most accessible of all the arts. It is free to experience, always on view and available to everyone.

Public art is part of Houston's arts sector, which is comprised of overlapping systems of formal and informal participation in a wide range of producing and consuming activities. Elements of the sector include: nonprofit organizations, schools and universities, faith organizations, for profit suppliers, retail and entertainment businesses, consumers, government and philanthropy. To quantify the multifaceted benefits of the arts, the 2015 State of the Arts Report by the Texas Cultural Trust provides a concise view of the importance of the arts in educating children and sustaining the Texas economy.⁷

Among the report findings were:

- Students who complete more art classes have up to 15 percent higher pass rates on standardized tests than students with fewer art classes
- In taxable sales alone, arts and culture generates $5.1 billion per year and contributes nearly $320 million in state sales tax revenue
- Beyond state tax revenue, arts and culture generates millions for local taxing entities including cities and economic development organizations whose funding comes from local sales tax revenue
- At-risk high school students who complete more than one art class are half as likely to drop out
- Three of the top 12 activities for non-resident visitors are arts, culture and festival-related activities

Arts and culture is part of the larger "creative economy." In addition to arts businesses like galleries, theaters and craft stores, the creative economy includes economic activity related to advertising, architecture, broadcasting, publishing, software development and much more. In the Creative Economy 2 report released by Houston Arts Alliance (HAA)⁸ in September 2015, data showed that between 2011 and 2014, demand for creative goods and services in Houston increased by $5 billion to $25.6 billion.⁹ Speaking on a panel about the study Patrick Jankowski, Vice President of Research at the Greater Houston Partnership, said “less than 10 years ago, there were 100,000 workers in Houston's creative economy. Today, there are more than 180,000 workers among that class. That's an 80 percent growth rate over 10 years. No other industry in Houston has grown its employment base at that rate in 10 years.”¹⁰ The study calls the regional creative economy a “sleeping giant” because of the potential to convert more of the $15.1 billion of imported creative goods and services to be locally supplied.

As cities now compete globally for talent and investment, the perception of cultural vitality as part of a city's brand is increasingly viewed as a determinate of success. Area Development is a magazine covering corporate site selection and relocation. In its 28th Annual Corporate Survey, it looks at “place” as an asset that can be honed, improved and marketed to potential employees. The survey states that “in today's highly competitive environment for talent, a compelling quality of place - a community's attractiveness to existing and future residents and workers - is a competitive advantage. Motivated by executives' increasing concern over their businesses' future growth prospects in an ever-tightening labor market, companies are choosing locations attractive to tomorrow's skilled, mobile work force.”¹¹ Another corporate location publication, Site Selection, succinctly concludes that “communities that foster quality of life will almost certainly be far more likely to attract investment.”¹²

The City of Houston's adopted Arts and Cultural Plan also identified character of place as a key aspect of Houston's ongoing success. “People form bonds of affection with a place, and develop lasting attachments to it, based on those qualities. To succeed, places need financial capital, access to money. They need human capital, especially young, educated people. And they need social capital, the value (economic and social) of people's interactions. Additionally, shared love of place is perhaps the strongest form of social capital. It is the glue that holds a place together. People who share love of a place will invest their time, energy and resources in that place.”¹³

Public art and the City’s Civic Art Program are addressed in the adopted Arts and Cultural Plan recommendations to:

- Update the Civic Art ordinance to include some aspects of horizontal construction to include more areas of the City for Civic Art
- Centralize Civic Art oversight in the Office of Cultural Affairs
- Develop strategies to deliver arts and culture programs, arts education and public art into neighborhoods
- Develop a public art master plan to guide the future development of the Civic Art Program

The Arts and Cultural Plan is available at: www.houstontx.gov/culturalaffairs/artsandculturalplan.

The Soul of the Community study, a project of Gallup and the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, explored how residents feel about their communities. The three-year study in 26 communities focused on the emotional side of the connection between residents and their communities, examining factors correlated with loyalty to and passionate feelings about a place. They found a positive correlation between residents’ attachment to a community and economic health. In this study, places found to have higher levels of community attachment were also found to have higher levels of Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growth¹⁴.

Houston’s Civic Art Program is a three-pronged benefit to the city. It produces public artworks that contribute to Houston’s economy, its sense of place and its civic identity. Houston has tremendous artistic and cultural assets and the Civic Art Program is part of the City’s cultural investments benefitting its 2.2 million residents and nearly 17 million annual visitors.¹⁵

D. Findings

The City of Houston Civic Art Program Evaluation Working Group reviewed the implementation of the program as set out in Exhibit A of the 2006 Civic Art Program Ordinance (No. 2006-731). The findings of the evaluation are presented in accordance with Exhibit A, Section 7 of the ordinance, requiring a formal evaluation of the program after a period of five year from the date of the ordinance adoption. Unless otherwise noted, the program evaluation findings of this report are from the adoption of the current ordinance by City Council on June 28, 2006 to December 31, 2015.

Finding 1 - Level of activity in creating and acquiring public artworks in the City Collection

A purpose of the Civic Art Program is to advance the City's standing as a national leader in public art by encouraging artists to create public works that improve the quality of life in Houston. The City Collection is the City of Houston's public art collection and is comprised of works of art in all media that are purchased, commissioned or gifted to the City and accepted by City Council. The City Collection includes donated objects, portable artwork, artwork commissioned for specific sites and design team projects where artists work collaboratively with other artists, architects, engineers and/or planners.

The evaluation found that during the timeframe of the report, the Civic Art Program routinely commissioned and purchased public artwork for the City's Collection as intended by the Civic Art Ordinance. The City also periodically accepted donations to the City Collection. Since the Civic Art Ordinance was last adopted in 2006, 85 artworks were commissioned, 173 were purchased and 26 were donated, for a total of 284 new artworks acquired. These new artworks join a collection of objects attained by the City as far back as 1855. There are now more than 650 objects in the City Collection. Approximately 44 percent of the current collection was acquired during the evaluation period.

The chart below summarizes the Civic Art Program activity by department for the evaluation period. A detailed list of projects is included in Appendix D.

Civic Art Project Activity Summary
June 28, 2006 - December 31, 2015
Department	# Purchased/Commissioned	# Donated	Total
CEFD/HFC	18	7	25
GSD	2	3	5
HAS ¹⁶	182	6	188
HFD	3	0	3
HHS	2	0	2
HPD	8	0	8
HPL	4	1	5
HPARD	3	9	12
PMD	7	0	7
PWE	23	0	23
SWMD	6	0	6
Total	258	26	284

¹⁶ Of the HAS artworks obtained in the evaluation period, 173 of the 188 works attained were Portable Artworks.

Much of the volume in the evaluation period is attributed to acquisitions of artworks by the Houston Airport System (HAS) for its Portable Works Collection. The Portable Works Collection currently features 173 two-dimensional and three-dimensional artworks. Appendix E provides a detailed list. They include objects ranging from sculptures to photographs and may be found at HAS airports. Unlike the larger, mostly fixed in place artworks commissioned through the program, pieces from the Portable Works Collection can be rotated throughout airport terminals, offering variety and a changing experience for routine travelers. Approximately 77 percent of the Portable Artwork collection is by Houston metro artists. By their nature, portable artworks are smaller and less expensive than signature commissioned pieces. The median cost of a commissioned artwork was $35,625 and the median cost of a Portable Artwork was $2,900.

The evaluation found that while the City has routinely acquired public artworks as set out in the Ordinance, the level of recognition to the City for its commissioning of public works of art has been limited. A scan of recent media coverage found few mentions of the City of Houston in relation to public art or its Civic Art Program. A summary of a Town Hall meeting in the City's adopted Arts and Cultural Plan also found "more public knowledge about the Civic Art Program is needed."¹⁷

Conclusion: Civic Art Appropriations are occurring as set out in the Ordinance. Documenting the appropriation process in an Administrative Procedure would institutionalize practices and provide a useful guide for departments and offices for their operations and during transitions.

Finding 2 - Placement of public artworks throughout the City

As noted in the first finding, the Civic Art Program activity resulted in a number of new artworks in the City Collection during the evaluation period. Civic Art funds may be expended on any project, but if the funds in question are derived from bond proceeds, debt issuance or enterprise funds, the expenditures must constitute a lawful use of such funds. For example, funds from HAS may only be used for projects within the airport enterprise fund and funds from voted park bonds may only be expended for projects in the Park System.

The evaluation found that eligible projects under the ordinance are generally vertical projects and the types of capital projects excluded from the art program include many Public Works and Engineering Department projects, which might conceivably provide a greater geographic distribution, if eligible. While the CIP projects occur throughout the City, in general, areas of the City that do not receive eligible (i.e. "vertical") CIP projects do not attain Civic Art projects. In general, the Civic Art projects are executed with the project that generated the revenue. It is allowable to direct Civic Art funding to another geographic area, i.e. a neighborhood that does not have Civic Art, as long as the projects are placed on property contained within the same bond/enterprise fund. In this way, Civic Art funds might be shared more equitably among Council Districts.

The evaluation found that while the City as a whole has gained a significant number of artworks, some areas of the City have higher concentrations than others and three City Council Districts did not attain any artworks in the evaluation period and Civic Art Projects have been concentrated at the airports and new facilities. The highest concentration of resulting artwork was within the HAS (Districts B and I) and the CEFD/HFC (District I). One project of the Public Works and Engineering Department, the Houston Permitting Center (District H), resulted in a concentration of 22 artworks. The map on the following page illustrates the distribution of Civic Art Projects acquired during the evaluation period.

Conclusion: A greater distribution of Civic Art Projects could be achieved by updating the Civic Art Ordinance as recommended in the City's adopted Arts and Cultural Plan, sharing Civic Art funding across Council Districts and prioritizing donated artworks to low saturation areas of the City. Another strategy to consider is planning for the distribution of Civic Art Projects in future bonds.

Section 1 sets out the definitions used in the ordinance.

Exhibit A, Section 2. FUNDING OF THE CIVIC ART PROGRAM

Funding of the Civic Art Program has three primary provisions: 1) determining the Civic Art Appropriation, 2) accounting for the Appropriation, and 3) including in every application to a granting authority to fund an Eligible Project, a request that 1.75 percent of the grant amount be authorized for Civic Art Program purposes.

1) The ordinance specifies that Civic Art Project funding is generated through an appropriation of 1.75 percent of the cost of design and construction services for an eligible project of the City's Capital Improvement Plan (CIP). An eligible project is any project that is not excluded.¹⁸ The calculation is based on the original appropriation and does not include subsequent amounts for amendments or change orders unless the scope of work is clearly contemplated in the original contract.

The evaluation found that determining if a project qualifies for a civic art appropriation is conducted at the department level. HAS and the General Services Department (GSD) generate civic art appropriations routinely. In addition, certain component units included in the City's CIP may also qualify for projects if eligible project appropriations are approved by City Council. Each department uses a multistep process to determine eligible projects.

HAS:

- All team members in the Planning, Design and Construction sections of HAS are trained and knowledgeable on projects that are qualified for civic art inclusion.
- HAS Capital Project committee determines projects for the annual CIP projections including an estimation of how much civic art funds are needed.

GSD (includes Public Works & Engineering):

- All Design and Construction project managers of GSD have been trained to identify which projects qualify. GSD has a three-step process for projects that qualify for Civic Art inclusion:

1. Capital Improvement Planning Budget including Civic Art

¹⁸ City of Houston, TX, Ord. Ch. 2, No. 2006-731.

- a. Proposed Capital Project budgets are built and checked by GSD Project Managers
- b. Checked by Capital Manager
- c. Overseen by Chief of Design and Construction
2. Capital Project Procurement including Civic Art
 - a. Revisited by the Project Manager when awarding a contract
 - b. Checked by Capital Manager and Chief of Design and Construction
3. Copies of the RCA with Civic Art Routed to the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs

The evaluation found that in the case of an eligible project, the Request for Council Action (RCA) includes the amount for civic art. Once the RCA is approved by Council, the Operations & Technical Services division of the Controller's Office sets up the funding in SAP to complete the appropriation.

2) The Ordinance specifies that the City Controller establish procedures for the accounting for the Civic Art Program Appropriation and report quarterly to City Council and relevant parties the amounts encumbered and expended for Civic Art Projects.

The evaluation found that Civic Art appropriations are entered into SAP once a Request for Council Action (RCA) is approved. Prior to March 2016, the Controller's Office reported Civic Art appropriations at the department level. Beginning with the period ending March 31, 2016 a stand-alone report was developed to better meet the reporting requirements under the ordinance is provided (Appendix C).

3) The ordinance specifies each City department shall include in every application to a granting authority to fund an eligible project, a request that 1.75 percent of the grant amount be authorized for Civic Art.

The evaluation found that City departments and offices routinely apply for grants and grant activities are coordinated through the City's Grants Management Office. The inclusion of Civic Art in grant applications was the responsibility of each department. As of March 2016, the Grants Management Office is including the Civic Art Ordinance provision in future grants training classes and materials and is now part of the update to its administrative procedures.

Conclusion: Civic Art Appropriations are occurring as set out in the Ordinance. Documenting the appropriation process in an Administrative Procedure would institutionalize practices and provide a useful guide for departments and offices for their operations and during transitions.

Exhibit A, Section 3. APPLICATION OF FUNDS IN CIVIC ART ACCOUNT

The ordinance specifies allowable uses of Civic Art appropriations for Civic Art Projects, Conservation Projects and to pay HAA administrative fees or costs under contract with the City. Total program expenditures over the approximately ten years in the evaluation period were about $11.5 million.

Subsection (a) - The ordinance provides that civic art appropriations shall be applied to pay costs and expenses of Civic Art in accordance with the Civic Art Plan.

The evaluation found that the Program indirectly results in contracts and purchasing agreements with artists, art galleries and art suppliers, fabricators, installers and other small businesses. The chart below lists expenditures on artwork by department during the evaluation period. A detailed list of projects is included in Appendices D and E.

Civic Art Project Art Expenditures by Dept.
June 28, 2006 - December 31, 2015
Department	Purchase Amount
CEFD/HFC	$ 411,500
GSD	$ 15,500

HPD	$ 577,000
HPL	$ 233,550
HPARD	$ 245,000
PMD	$ 52,750
PWE	$ 474,000
SWMD	$ 12,000
Total	$ 6,979,131

Subsection (b) - The ordinance provides that civic art appropriations shall be applied to pay the costs and expenses of Conservation Projects included in the Conservation Plan. Conservation means the treatment of deteriorated or damaged artwork to approximate as nearly as possible its original form, design, color and function with minimal further sacrifice of aesthetic and historic integrity. Conservation differs from maintenance. Maintenance is action taken to retard or prevent deterioration or damage and keep the artwork in as unchanging state as possible. Civic Art funds cannot be used for maintenance.

The evaluation found that 106 artworks have received conservation treatment and 126 total conservation actions have been performed in the evaluation period. Like acquiring new works of art, conservation of artworks also utilizes small businesses. The chart below lists expenditures by department on conservation projects. A detailed chart is provided in Appendix F.

Subsection (c) - The Ordinance provides that Civic Art appropriations may be used to pay HAA for administrative fees or costs related to the program. See footnote 7 for a description of HAA.

The evaluation found the City has routinely entered into service contracts with HAA. Using construction vernacular, HAA often serves as the prime contractor for art projects. Under its contracts with the City, HAA provides services such as: project scoping, developing and issuing request for qualifications, artist selection, contracting with project artists and management of art projects.

The fee structure used by the City evolved over the evaluation period. Currently, up to 17 percent of each project budget is applied for HAA services. Because the flow of capital projects can vary from year to year, the amount of activity needed from HAA fluctuates and HAA may not generate enough billable Civic Art work for it to maintain its desired level of staffing. HAA also advises the Texas Department of Transportation on placements of artwork on its right of way and undertakes other public art activities unrelated to the City's Civic Art Program. A February 19, 2016 memo from HAA (Appendix G) indicates HAA also uses HOT for its Civic Art Department.

The City paid HAA approximately $2.5 million in administration fees during the evaluation period for Civic Art services. This figure does not include HOT funds utilized by HAA to support its Civic Art Department or pass-through fees to artists. The chart below details the fees paid to HAA with Civic Art Program funds during the evaluation period.

Administrative Expenditures ¹⁹
June 28, 2006 - December 31, 2015
CEFD/HFC	$ 228,059 ²⁰
GSD	$ 952,225
HAS	$ 1,385,324
Total	$ 2,565,608

It is a generally accepted principle in the public art field that engaging the artist early in the design process results in better art projects. The evaluation found the Civic Art Program frequently begins the artist selection after building design is substantially complete or even after groundbreaking. Giving the artist more time to understand the project program and to fully consider the context of the site, will likely result in artworks that are more developed and relevant. It would also provide more opportunity to scope Civic Art projects in a way to expand the potential pool of artists eligible to apply for projects. Generally, the later in the design and constructions process the artist selection is begun, the greater the likelihood that the artist will need to demonstrate a higher level of experience to ensure the project is completed on time. While there are certain advantages to working with highly experienced artists that can deliver turnkey services, this limits the pool of artists that can be competitive for commissions. Further, by beginning artist selection earlier, efficiencies may be gained by conducting multiple artist selection processes simultaneously.

Conclusion: The City has been routinely applying Civic Art funds for allowable purposes. HAA has been the preferred contractor for procuring civic artworks and there is likely benefit to the City by initiating the artist selection process sooner. The fee structure used for contracting HAA services may not provide the City with the desired level of Program continuity and diverting HOT funds as a backfill puts additional pressure on the already oversubscribed HOT grants program. The City might benefit by reviewing its compensation structure and/or establishing a flat fee for a set number of services in lieu of a percentage based rate.

Exhibit A, Section 4. MAYORAL APPOINTMENT OF DESIGNATED DIRECTORS OF HAA BOARD

The ordinance specifies the Mayor shall appoint six of 31 directors to the HAA Board of Directors for confirmation by City Council.²¹ The ordinance specifies staggered terms from June 30, 2006 through June 30, 2009 and every three years thereafter.

¹⁹ Excluding any HOT funds.

²⁰ Partial calculation only. Detail records for the full evaluation period were not available.

²¹ Under a separate contract for distribution of grants utilizing HOT revenue, the Mayor also has one Ex-Officio voting designee to the HAA Board and Executive Committee.

The evaluation found board appointments to HAA have rotated at regular intervals. The records for the first three years with the staggered terms of the City's Boards and Commissions Office and HAA reflect the same appointments; however, some of the term dates differ. The current appointees' term dates are consistent. The current Mayoral appointees are:

Term 1 (Term ending 6/30/16)

1. Roland Garcia, GreenburgTraurig LLP
2. Vacant

Term 2 (Term ending 6/30/17)

3. Gigi Myung, GLM Energy Inc.
4. Vacant

Term 3 (Term ending 6/30/18)

5. Lauren Anderson, Houston Ballet
6. Sharon Murphy, McConnell Jones Lanier & Murphey LLP

The evaluation found confusion among City staff and elected officials about the role of HAA with the City. As stated in the previous section, HAA is a Texas nonprofit corporation and works under contract to the City. It is a component unit of the City and may be subject to Administrative Policy 2-10 governing City nonprofit and local government corporations.

Conclusion: The inclusion of the appointment of HAA board members in the Civic Art ordinance has been a point of confusion.

The chart on the next page reflects current and previous Mayoral appointees to the HAA board:

Exhibit A, Section 5. TEMPORARY PLACEMENT OF WORKS OF ART ON CITY PROPERTY

The Ordinance specifies administrative practices for authorizing individuals or groups to temporarily place works of art on City property; however, funding temporary art is not an allowable use of Civic Art funds. The Ordinance specifies that Civic Art must be of a permanent nature. The Ordinance specifies placement of artwork on City property is subject to the approval of the City department having jurisdiction over the site where the art will be placed.

The evaluation found City departments, particularly the Parks and Recreation Department and Public Works and Engineering, frequently authorize temporary works. The Houston Airport System also authorizes temporary works on a limited basis. The City does not have administrative procedures for administering temporary art authorizations.

The Ordinance specifies temporary placement may be for an initial period of time of not more than 90 days and the director of the City department with jurisdiction over the site may extend the temporary placement of a work of art for two consecutive periods of time not to exceed 90 days each, for a maximum display term of 270 days. A rationale for the time period was not identified. The evaluation found applicants and City departments generally desire the maximum time period of display. In one case, a special ordinance was passed by Council to extend the term beyond the 270 days. In most cases, departments conclude display at the 270-day maximum, rather than seek an extension through a special ordinance.

The Ordinance also provides that at the request of a City department, HAA will formulate a recommendation with respect to the temporary placement of a work of art on City property in a specific case. HAA maintains guidelines for its use in formulating recommendations at the request of a City department. These guidelines are intended for temporary art in (mostly) outdoor public spaces, i.e. parks and esplanades. HAS maintains department guidelines that are responsive to its limited space for (mostly) interior exhibitions by nonprofit entities. The Portable Works program provides the benefits sought from temporary art displays. There would be little benefit to the City in further promoting temporary exhibit opportunities at the airports by outside entities because spaces and opportunities are limited.

Conclusion: More utilization of outdoor public spaces to take advantage of opportunities for privately funded temporary art installations could benefit the City by having more art for the public to view, particularly in areas of low art saturation. The City could more clearly and effectively administer temporary art through an administrative procedure and remove temporary art administration from the next ordinance update.

Exhibit A, Section 6. ADMINISTRATION OF THE CIVIC ART PROGRAM

The Ordinance specifies a minimum set of administrative services for the Program and allows that the City may contract with HAA for administration of the Program. HAA has no duties, responsibilities or obligations with respect to the Program unless the City has entered into a contract stipulating the terms under which HAA will perform services. If not contracted, the City assumes the following administrative responsibilities:

- (1) Development of program policies and procedures subject to the approval of the Directors for whom such contracts exists.

The evaluation found that the program has operated under guidelines developed by HAA and that each project is carried out through a detailed scope of work with art acquisition procedures specific to the needs of each entity for the contract period. The City has not formally adopted official programmatic policies and procedures.

(2) Development of the annual Civic Art Program and submission to City Council for approval in coordination with the Directors of each City department with Civic Art appropriations on or before June 30 of each year.

The evaluation found that the Civic Art Program has been a section in the City's annual five-year Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) each year throughout the evaluation period. The CIP is adopted annually by City Council; however, adoption dates vary and may occur after June 30.

(3) Development of an annual report to be presented to the Mayor and City Council on or before September 30th of each year including the prior year's program activities and a detailed accounting of expenditures and administrative expenses.

The evaluation found that prior to September 2016, the Finance Department reported program activity at the department level. Beginning with the period ending June 30, 2016, a stand-alone report, developed by MOCA to better meet the reporting requirements under the ordinance, is provided (Appendix I).

(4) Provision of staff to support the implementation and administration of the program.

The evaluation found staff has been dedicated through contracts with HAA.

(5) Professional artist services to provide Civic Art and Conservation in accordance with City ordinances and applicable state law.

The evaluation found professional artist services have been provided by subcontract through HAA and form artist contracts include applicable City ordinance and state law requirements.

(6) Examination of works of art proposed for permanent or long-term placement on City property or to become the property of the City, with recommendations to the Mayor and City Council for the proposed location and suitability of such works of art.

The evaluation found City departments routinely request recommendations from HAA for the disposition of artworks by Mayor and Council.

Conclusion: The City has provided for the administration of the program. Codifying program policies in one or more administrative procedure(s) could provide greater clarity and ensure ordinance requirements are uniformly applied.

Finding 4 - Ongoing maintenance of the City Collection

The ordinance provides requirements for the maintenance of the City Collection.

Exhibit A, Section 8. MAINTENANCE OF CITY COLLECTION

The ordinance specifies maintenance is the responsibility of each department having jurisdiction over a Civic Art Project or work of art included in the City Collection. Maintenance activities shall not include conservation. As noted earlier, conservation differs from maintenance. Maintenance is action taken to retard or prevent deterioration or damage and keep the artwork in as unchanging state as possible. Civic Art funds cannot be used for maintenance. The ordinance also specifies that HAA shall have no duties and responsibilities with respect to maintenance unless specifically provided for by contract between the City and HAA.

The evaluation found varying approaches to maintenance by City departments. Appendix H displays the results of a short maintenance survey sent to City departments. The survey responses indicate that at least some departments may be helped by clarifying maintenance vs. conservation and general program information. Increasingly, maintenance requirements are considered during the art commissioning and design phases, as well as for donations to the City Collection. A few departments requested additional information and guidance about the care of artworks under the department's responsibility.

Conclusion: City departments are conscientious about the artworks in their care. A uniform procedure for providing routine care instructions for works in the collection and periodic outreach will improve awareness and the capacity of the departments to care for artworks.

City of Houston, Texas, Ordinance No. 2006- 731

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO THE CITY'S CIVIC ART PROGRAM; AMENDING CHAPTER 2 OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES, HOUSTON, TEXAS, AND CONTAINING FINDINGS AND OTHER PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE FOREGOING SUBJECT; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY; AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

* * * * *

WHEREAS, the City Council finds that art has enabled people in all societies to better understand their communities and individual lives; and

WHEREAS, the City Council finds that the City's standing as a national leader in public art will be enhanced by encouraging artists to create public works of art that improve the quality of life in Houston; and

WHEREAS, the City Council recognizes that once art is placed throughout the City, it is necessary to provide for the ongoing maintenance and conservation of the City's art collection; and

WHEREAS, the City Council first established a Municipal Art Commission by City of Houston Ordinance No. 64-1665, which later amended by City of Houston Ordinances No. 65-2360, No. 78-65, No. 78-740, No. 91-1634, and No. 2000-1030, and is now codified as Division 2 of Article XI of Chapter 2 of the Code of Ordinances, Houston, Texas; and

WHEREAS, the City Council established a Civic Art Program by the adoption of City of Houston Ordinance No. 99-1351, which was later amended by City of Houston Ordinance No. 2000-1031; and

WHEREAS, the City Council desires to continue the City's Civic Art Program, as well as provide funding for both acquisition and conservation of civic art; NOW, THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HOUSTON, TEXAS:

Section 1. That the findings contained in the preamble of this Ordinance are determined to be true and correct and are hereby adopted as a part of this Ordinance.

Section 2. That Division 2 of Article XI of Chapter 2 of the Code of Ordinances, Houston, Texas, is hereby repealed in its entirety.

Section 3. That the Civic Art Program for the City of Houston that was established by City of Houston Ordinance No. 99-1351 is hereby amended in its entirety and restated to read as set forth in Exhibit A, attached hereto and incorporated herein.

Section 4. That, if any provision, section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this Ordinance, or the application of same to any person or set of circumstances, is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, void or invalid, the validity of the remaining portions of this Ordinance or their application to other persons or sets of circumstances shall not be affected thereby, it being the intent of the City Council in adopting this Ordinance that no portion hereof or provision or regulation contained herein shall become inoperative or fail by reason of any unconstitutionality, voidness or invalidity of any other portion hereof, and all provisions of this Ordinance are declared to be severable for that purpose.

Section 5. That City of Houston Ordinances No. 64-1655, No. 65-2360, No. 78-65, No. 78-740, No. 91-1634, No. 2000-1030 and No. 2000-1031 are hereby repealed.

Section 6. That there exists a public emergency requiring that this Ordinance be passed finally on the date of its introduction as requested in writing by the Mayor; therefore, this Ordinance shall be passed finally on such date and shall take effect immediately upon its passage and approval by the Mayor; however, in the event that the Mayor fails to sign this Ordinance within five days after its passage and adoption, it shall take effect in accordance with Article VI, Section 6, Houston City Charter.

PASSED AND ADOPTED this the 28th day of June, 2006.

APPROVED this the 28th day of June, 2006.

Bill White
Mayor of the City of Houston

CIVIC ART PROGRAM FOR THE CITY OF HOUSTON, TEXAS

Section 1. DEFINITIONS.

The following words, terms, and phrases, when used in this ordinance shall have the meanings ascribed to them in this section, except when the context clearly indicates a different meaning:

Capital Improvement Plan Project (“CIP Project”) means a project in the City of Houston’s then-current adopted Capital Improvement Plan to be undertaken within a particular fiscal year or other designated period.

City means the City of Houston, Texas, a municipal corporations principally located in Harris County, Texas.

City Collection means the City of Houston's public art collection comprised of works of art in all media that are purchased, commissioned, or gifted to the City and accepted by City Council for inclusion in the City's public art collection. The City Collection may include portable artwork, artwork commissioned for specific sites, or design team projects where artists work collaboratively with other artists, architects, engineers, and/or planners.

Civic Art/Civic Art Project means a work of visual art or master plan for art work for the City or a particular City department or location developed by a professional artist acknowledged by critics and peers as a professional of recognized ability appropriate for the Civic Art Project, who produces art in any permanent medium or material. Civic Art/Civic Art Projects include, but are not limited to, paintings, murals, prints, drawings, photographs, videos, films, or works in other media, decorations, stained glass, statues, bas-reliefs or other sculptures, monuments, fountains, arches or other structures of a permanent character intended for ornament or commemoration, and now located or hereafter placed on City property. Civic Art must be of a permanent nature and may be integral to the architecture or incorporated into an Eligible Project.

Civic Art Plan means that portion of the Civic Art Program related to Civic Art, including a prioritized list of Civic Art Projects, budget and recommended design approaches prepared and approved by HAA and the affected Departments and presented to City Council for approval, describing all Civic Art Projects to be started during a fiscal year, subject to available Civic Art Program Appropriations.

Civic Art Program means those Civic Art Projects and Conservation Projects approved by the Director of the affected City departments and City Council for funding under this Ordinance.

Civic Art Program Appropriation means an amount equal to 1 .75% of the amount appropriated by City Council for an Eligible Project, which shall be dedicated to Civic Art Program purposes in accordance with City of Houston Ordinance No. 2006-731.¹

Conservation/Conservation Project means the treatment of deteriorated or damaged artwork to approximate as nearly as possible its original form, design, color, and function with minimal further sacrifice of aesthetic and historic integrity.

Conservation Plan means that portion of the Civic Art Program related to Conservation, including a prioritized list of Conservation Projects and a budget prepared and approved by HAA and the affected Departments and presented to City Council for approval, describing all Conservation Projects to be started during a respective fiscal year, subject to available Civic Art Program Appropriations.

Eligible Project means a CIP Project that is not an Excluded Project.

Excluded Projects means all paving projects, street resurfacing projects, runways, ramps, and parking lots, signal and traffic control projects, underground projects, demolition projects, environmental assessment or remediation projects, projects for the rehabilitation or replacement of a single building system (such as a project for roofing only), as well as individual CIP Projects with an estimated cost less than $500,000 and combined CIP Projects where individual CIP Projects within the combined CIP Project have an estimated cost less than $500,000 .

HAA means the Houston Arts Alliance, a Texas non-profit corporation.

Maintenance means actions taken by each City department to retard or prevent deterioration or damage to that portion of the City Collection under its control by controlling the environment and/or treating the structure to maintain such portion of the City Collection in as unchanging a state as possible.

¹The City Secretary shall insert the Number of the Ordinance establishing this Program.

Section 2. FUNDING OF THE CIVIC ART PROGRAM.

(a) For the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1999, 1.75% of the appropriation for an Eligible Project may be appropriated for Civic Art Program purposes as provided in this Ordinance. For the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2000, and for each fiscal year thereafter, 1.75% of the appropriation for an Eligible Project shall be appropriated for Civic Art Program purposes as provided in this Ordinance. Such appropriations shall be made at the same time that the City Council appropriates funds for one or more Eligible Projects.

(b) The Civic Art Program Appropriation shall be calculated based on the cost of design services and construction services amount for an Eligible Project. Calculation of the Civic Art Program Appropriation shall be based on the original appropriation for design services and construction services and shall not include any subsequent amounts appropriated for amendments/change orders, unless the scope of work is clearly contemplated in the original contract (such as a design-build project or project to be accomplished in phases).

(c) The City Controller shall establish procedures for accounting for the Civic Art Program Appropriation and shall report to City Council, the affected departments and HAA at least quarterly the amounts appropriated, encumbered and expended for Civic Art Projects. Amounts appropriated for Civic Art Program purposes for distinct portions of the CIP, including Public Improvements (Fire, Library, Parks, Police, Health and General Government), Convention and Entertainment Facilities, Airport System, and Water and Sewer System, shall be kept separate to be spent for Civic Art Projects associated with the original purpose of the funding. Any amount appropriated from bonds, debt issuance or other legally restricted funding sources shall be kept separate and shall be spent in accordance with applicable legal restrictions related to such funding sources.

(d) Funds appropriated for Civic Art Program purposes shall be expended on any project included in the Civic Art Program, but if the funds in question are derived from bond proceeds, debt issuance or enterprise funds, the expenditure must constitute a lawful use of such funds (e.g., funds from the Airport System enterprise fund or the Water and Sewer System enterprise fund may only be appropriated for Eligible Projects within the same enterprise fund; similarly, funds from voted park bonds may only be expended for Eligible Projects in the Park System).

(e) Effective immediately, each City department shall include in every application to a granting authority to fund an Eligible Project, a request that 1.75% of the grant amount be authorized for Civic Art Program purposes in accordance with this Ordinance. All Eligible Projects financed with grants or contributions from private persons or governmental or public agencies are subject to this Ordinance unless expressly provided otherwise in the conditions of the granting or contributing person or agency. If Civic Art Program purposes are not allowed as an authorized purpose of such grant or contribution, then only the City-funded portion of the Eligible Project shall be subject to this Ordinance.

Section 3. APPLICATION OF FUNDS IN CIVIC ART ACCOUNT.

(a) Civic Art Program Appropriations shall be applied to pay the costs and expenses of Civic Art in accordance with the Civic Art Plan, which may include costs and expense for: administration of the Civic Art Program, artists' design concepts, architects' fees where collaboration is involved, documentation; incremental costs for art integrated into functional items; and the acquisition, purchase, commissioning, fabrication, manufacture, erection, placement, installation, exhibition, and display of Civic Art. If Civic Art is acquired as part of a general contract (i.e., where the provider of the Civic Art is a subcontractor), amounts appropriated for Civic Art Program purposes may be used to pay that portion of the amounts due the general contractor for the cost of the Civic Art.

(b) Costs and expenses of a Conservation Project included in the Conservation Plan shall be paid from Civic Art Program Appropriations. Such costs and expenses may include, but are not limited to fees, costs and/or expenses for: assessment of condition and conservation needed for a work of art included in the City Collection; conservation of a work of art, including conservation fees and expenses; and preparation of a condition report and method of treatment.

(c) Civic Art Program Appropriations may be used to pay HAA for administrative fees or costs related to the Civic Art Program pursuant to any contract entered into between the City and HAA in connection with the administration of the Civic Art Program.

Section 4. MAYORAL APPOINTMENT OF DESIGNATED DIRECTORS OF HAA BOARD.

(a) The Mayor shall appoint six directors of the HAA Board of Directors, in positions one through six. Such Mayoral appointees shall be confirmed by City Council.

(b) The term of office for the Mayoral appointed directors of HAA shall normally be three years and shall expire as follows :

- (1) For positions three and four, the terms shall expire on June 30, 2008, and every three years thereafter, subject to the limitations of subpart 4(d) below.
- (2) For positions one and two, the terms shall expire on June 30, 2007, and every three years thereafter, subject to the limitation of subpart 4(d) below.
- (3) For positions five and six, the terms shall expire on June 30, 2009, and every three years thereafter, subject to the limitations of subpart 4(d) below.

(c) Any director appointed by the Mayor and confirmed by City Council may be removed by the Mayor at any time for good cause.

(d) Any director appointed by the Mayor and confirmed by City Council shall be eligible to serve as a director of HAA for no more than two consecutive terms; provided, however, any director serving in a position for which the term has expired shall continue to serve until the director's successor in that position is appointed and confirmed. Any vacancy in a Mayoral appointed director position shall be filled for the unexpired term.

(e) The failure of the Mayor to appoint or City Council to confirm, all or any of such six directors shall in no way affect the ability of HAA to conduct its business in accordance with state law and its governing documents or the rights, duties or benefits of HAA to perform its duties and obligations and receive the benefits of any contracts between HAA and the City in connection with the administration of the Civic Art Program.

Section 5. TEMPORARY PLACEMENT OF WORKS OF ART ON CITY PROPERTY.

The City may permit temporary placement of a work of art on City property for a period of time not to exceed one year, subject to the approval of the Director of the Office of Cultural Affairs and the Director of the City department having jurisdiction over the site upon which the work of art will be placed.

- (1) The Director of the City department having jurisdiction over the site may extend the temporary placement of a work of art for two consecutive periods of time not to exceed 90 days each;
- (2) A written application by the person or group responsible for the placement and removal of such work shall be submitted to the Office of Cultural Affairs and approved in writing by the Director of the Office of Cultural Affairs and the City department having jurisdiction of the site.
- (3) Each application shall contain a detailed timetable covering placement and removal of the work and a clear commitment for its timely removal.
- (4) If the Director of the affected City department determines it advisable and requires it, a bond not to exceed $2,000.00 conditioned on the timely removal of the object shall be posted by the applicant.
- (5) The City department approving such temporary placement of art shall promptly forward the relevant applications to the Secretary of HAA.
- (6) The City department making the approval shall promptly forward notice of removal or delay in removing the temporary placement of works of art to the Secretary of HAA.
- (7) Nothing in this section regarding the temporary placement of works of art shall prevent the Office of Cultural Affairs from requesting HAA to formulate a recommendation with respect to the temporary placement of a work of art on City property in a specific case.

Section 6. ADMINISTRATION OF THE CIVIC ART PROGRAM.

The City may enter into one or more contracts with HAA, each for a term of not less than one year nor greater than five years, to administer the Civic Art Program. Administration of the Civic Art Program will include, but not be limited to, the following services:

- (1) The development of policies and procedures for the implementation of the Civic Art Program, subject to the approval of the Directors for whom such contracts exist.
- (2) The development of the annual Civic Art Program and the submission of the Program to City Council for approval, in coordination with the Directors of each City department for which Civic Art Program Appropriations are available. HAA, in coordination with such Directors, shall present the Civic Art Program to City Council on or before June 30th of each year.
- (3) The development of an annual report to be presented to the Mayor and City Council on or before September 30th of each year. The annual report will set forth the prior year's Civic Art Program activities, including a detailed accounting of expenditures for the Civic Art Program and administrative expenses related thereto.
- (4) The provision of staff support to City departments with regard to implementation and administration of the Civic Art Program.
- (5) The performance of professional artist services to provide Civic Art and Conservation to the City either directly or under a subcontract. If services are performed under a subcontract, they must be procured in accordance with City ordinances and applicable state law.
- (6) The examination of all works of art or designs or models of same that are proposed for permanent or long-term placement on City property or that are to become the property of the City by purchase, gift or otherwise (other than those works to be placed in a museum or gallery), together with recommendations to the Mayor and City Council for the proposed location and suitability of such works of art.

HAA shall have no duties, responsibilities or obligations with respect to administering the Civic Art program unless and until the City and HAA have entered into a contract setting forth the terms under which HAA shall perform such services that may be funded with Civic Art Program Appropriations. If the City and HAA have not entered into such contract, the contract has been terminated, or funds have been exhausted, the City shall assume such duties, responsibilities and obligations with respect to the Civic Art Program.

Section 7. PROGRAM EVALUATION.

After a period of five (5) years from the date the ordinance establishing this Civic Art Program is passed and adopted (6-28-06), the City Council Quality of Life Committee shall undertake a formal evaluation of the program and present the findings of the evaluation to the Mayor and City Council.

Section 8. MAINTENANCE OF CITY COLLECTION.

Maintenance shall be the responsibility of each department having jurisdiction over a Civic Art Project or work of art included in the City Collection. Such maintenance activities undertaken by the City departments shall not include Conservation of the City Collection. HAA shall have no duties and responsibilities with respect to the maintenance of the City Collection unless, and then only to the extent, specifically provided for by contract between the City and HAA that provides funding for such services.

²The City Secretary shall insert the date of passage and approval of the Ordinance establishing this Program.

Appendix G – Houston Arts Alliance Letter Re: Use of HOT Funds for Civic Art

19 February 2016

Council Member Ellen Cohen
via email

Dear Council Member Cohen:

As usual, thank you for your leadership as chair of the Quality of Life Committee and thank you for your continued support of the arts and culture in our city.

Per your request, please find attached the following:

- 1) A brief spreadsheet benchmarking HAA civic art (public art) management fees to other programs across the country. We conducted a similar, more comprehensive survey about five years ago, which resulted in the 17% fee we currently use.
- 2) An overview of HAA civic art project management functions, including the panel qualifications and review process, compiled from the 2011-2015 Civic Art & Design Program report.
- 3) A copy of the HAA FY2015 audit and FY16 budget. This budget was revised in January, as part of our annual mid-year review, with a projected reduction of 5% to reflect a decrease in HOT funds.

HAA currently has 23 FTE employees. Utilizing standard accounting practices, HOT funds support approximately 17 of those positions and the remaining are funded through civic art management funds and outside fundraising. Important to note, depending on project workload, civic art administration has been in deficit in four of the six previous years, thus mandating that other funds, including HOT and outside funds, support that program to ensure that we have adequate qualified staff to manage program needs.

Please let me know if you would like any further information. I am always eager to speak about the work of HAA on behalf of and in partnership with the City.

Sincerely,

Houston Arts Alliance CEO + President

Appendix H – Maintenance Chart Survey

Maintenance Chart Survey
Dept.	1) How does your department carry out maintenance of the Civic Artworks under its jurisdiction? (Briefly describe the process)	2) Does your department have a maintenance schedule and/or a record of the maintenance performed on Civic Artworks under its jurisdiction? (Attach any relevant documents)	3) Does your department have any maintenance agreements for Civic Artworks under its jurisdiction?	4) Does your department need any assistance clarifying the specific Civic Artworks under its jurisdiction or the maintenance protocols? (Please be as specific as possible about what information is needed)	5) Do you have any questions or additional information you would like to provide?
ARA	We have 8 parking meters that incorporate art. These meters are also managing the public parking supply – our officers and maintenance staff provide notice when the meter is impacted and our team resolves the issue.	Maintenance records are stored in our electronic work order system.	No	No	No
CEFD/ HFC	As the managers of these properties and all assets contained within, Houston First Corporation staff oversees the daily maintenance and careful stewardship of each work. Due to the varied materials, placements and locations of these works, instructions for the daily maintenance of each is given to those who may be performing tasks such as dusting, polishing and washing.	Sheila Turkiewicz, Director of Theater Operations, and Christine West, Cultural Programs Manager at HFC have compiled the list of works under HFC's care and the daily maintenance schedules and procedures for each. Those instructions have been reviewed with the staff responsible for housekeeping and grounds keeping and who interact with the works on a daily basis.	Major conservation projects in the past have been contracted through the Houston Arts Alliance Civic Art Department with oversight from Houston First directors and staff at each site.	None	None
HFD	HFD is not aware of any maintenance that is required on any of the civic art.	There is currently no maintenance schedule and to our knowledge, no maintenance has been carried out.	There are no maintenance agreements that we have been made aware of.	The three stations listed above are the only civic art projects within our department. We would like to know if there is any maintenance protocol that we should be aware of.	None.

HHD	Routine maintenance, such as minor cleaning work (such as dusting) is completed by the city's janitorial contractor. If specialized work is needed to repair or deep clean an art piece we contact HAA for direction regarding who is qualified to do this work and ask for their assistance in determining how the work should be completed.	No, we do not maintain a schedule or log of Civic Artworks maintenance.	No, we do not.	Yes; we do not have instructions on the proper maintenance of any of the civic artworks that are located at HHD facilities (listing is attached here). It would be helpful to have someone tell us (for each piece of artwork) what maintenance is required, and how often it should be done.	Question 1 – Our facility at 5602 Lyons Avenue is scheduled to be sold this calendar year. What is done with the Artwork when the property that is located on is sole? The facility at this location is to be torn down by the purchaser and a new shopping center is to be built there. I've pasted the information on that piece below. Question 2 – We have a tile mural wall (by Reginald Adams) on the exterior of our building located at 1906 Cochran. This piece was apparently installed 11 years ago, when the building was occupied by a tenant agency who renovated the building and added the wall – so the art work is not included in the city's collection. This beautiful wall is in need of maintenance, as it is coming loose from the building. We have been trying to get this work done with the help of HAA since March 2015, but have made little progress to date. Please see attached emails on the subject and let us know if there is a different procedure that we need to follow to accomplish this.
HPAR D	The Houston Parks and Recreation Department does not carry out the maintenance of art placed in our Park System. We employ the help of the Houston Art Alliance to evaluate, make recommendations and execute all maintenance work of art pieces.	We do not have a schedule. When it becomes apparent cleaning is necessary, we contact the Houston Art Alliance.	No, we do not.	No, thank you	None, thank you

HPD	The Police Department's care and maintenance of Civic Artwork under its jurisdiction is basic in nature. The department head at a particular location displaying Civic Artwork usually the rank of Captain or an equivalent will delegate the cleaning of artwork to janitorial staff as part of day to day facility maintenance. The vast majority of artwork at police facilities is relatively easy to maintain. If an item requires repair or maintenance a request is directed to the HPD General Services Liaison to get the issue addressed.	The Police Department utilizes visual inspections performed by on site personnel at locations where Civic Artwork is on display, which is done in concert with general facilities management. Any records of maintenance performed on Civic Artwork would be maintained in the form of a work order for repair of maintenance managed by the HPD General Services Liaison.	Currently, only the Houston Police Department, Police Memorial is identified as having an agreement with the Houston Arts Alliance (HAA).	It would be helpful to have to have assistance in clarifying cleaning, maintenance, and repair protocols as per the artist for Civic Artwork under our jurisdiction. After speaking with you this morning, I will add you as a contact for HPD General Services Liaison and coordinate with your office on these type issues.	I have no questions or additional information at this time.
HPL	Library Department contacts the Houston Arts Alliance (HAA) for an evaluation for the conservation/maintenance of any Civic Artworks in need of maintenance. HAA puts together a scope of work and budget and sends to General Services Department (GSD). GSD sets up any agreements (LOA, RCA, etc.), budget documentation and setup, etc. and authorizes HAA and contracted parties to perform the requested conservation/maintenance. Once the project is complete, GSD works on finalizing any necessary agreements, paperwork, etc., HAA provides information about the work completed and any other supporting documentation (including suggested maintenance and care documentation) to both GSD and Library.	Library Department does not have a maintenance schedule, but does retain records of maintenance performed on Civic Artworks under its jurisdiction when such documentation is provided. We are in the process of creating and prioritizing a maintenance schedule.	Library Department does not have a maintenance schedule, but does retain records of maintenance performed on Civic Artworks under its jurisdiction when such documentation is provided. PWE	Maintenance is not carried out on a regular schedule. If damage occurs to the artwork, HPC contacts the Houston Arts Alliance (HAA) to request a repair. HAA will conduct an assessment and	Damage has either been documented by HAA and repairs not completed or maintenance has not yet occurred.	No	Yes, repairs -- if completed at all-- takes several months to occur.
